NANCY HANKS' DAY.

The Famous Mare on the Kite-Shaped Track.

Yesterday's Races and To-Day's Programme.

There was a fair attendance at the races yesterday although it was not as large as had been expected. The central feature of the day, of course was the appearance of Nancy Hanks in her attempt to beat her own record of 2:04 made at Terre Haute, Indiana. Her time was, first quarter 30 seconds, second quarter, 31; third quarter, 31; fourth quarter, 34, or 30, 1:01; 1:32; 2:06.

TWO TWENTY-FIVE CLASS.

The race in the 2:25 class yesterday was a pretty test of speed and was sharply contested by eight starters. The first money was won by Miss Edith, while second money went to Stratford, a horse that exhibited staying qualities second to no horse that has gone during the present meeting. Stratford pushed all of his competitors and came within a neck of winning first money. Eight horses contesting in such a race always brings to the front only the best and while taking only second money he was the most admired of any animal in the race, even more than the mare that won the race. He takes the mark of 2:22 in this race. He was driven by F. H. Barnard, of St. Paul, where Stratford is now owned.

The following is the summary:

Time, 2:27, 2:29, 2:25.

AGAINST TIME.

John R. Gentry was put on the track to beat his own record of 2:13. He made it in 2:12.

Tom Killrush, with a pacing record of 2:30 lowered it to 2:27.

The Queen of the Turf.

Fully seven thousand people were at Association park yesterday afternoon, to witness the mile heat trotted by Nancy Hanks, the fastest trotting horse in the world, with a record of 2:04. The affair had been advertised for the past two months, and special trains arranged for, in order that the people of the surrounding country might attend and witness the greatest race it had ever been their pleasure to see on the turf. Many who did come, however, did not attend at the park. Nancy Hanks, her peace-maker, Abe Lincoln, and Mr. Budd Doble, arrived early in the week and daily have been training for the event of the season—to lower her record of 2:04.

Yesterday the sun shown brightly all day; the time for the trial approaching under very favorable auspices.

The wind was a little high and rather keen but abated considerably later on, thus making the situation more favorable for the trotting queen. About 2 o'clock was rigged in harness and jogged back and forth in front of the grand stand several times, receiving applause from her many admirers as she passed and later on was driven a slow mile to warm up and prepare for the "go."

The start was advertised for 3:30, but on account of the wind and temperature of the air it was continued until half past four. Five minutes prior to this time, Miss Nancy appeared on the track accompanied by her running mate, Abe Lincoln, and after jogging her a slow mile, Doble announced himself ready. The race which was in progress at the time, was delayed until later, as Nancy was then in excellent spirits and Mr. Doble wanted to move while everything was favorable. When the track was cleared the mare and her driver rounded the upper turn and at a two minute gait. Doble shook his head as he passed Starter McCarty, who was waiting for the sign, and catching the move, tapped the bell for another trial. The next time Mr. Doble nodded his head as he went by and McCarty shouted "go". Away they flew, almost brushing the people off the fence as they passed. Nancy was timed as she passed the first, second and third quarters, and many vowed that she would beat 2:04.

The people crowded around the home stretch to get a better view of the ending, as she came down the track and this mistake may be attributed to the fact that she did not make better time than 2:06. Upon nearing the wire Doble applied the whip gently but the mare slowed up and just two minutes six seconds and a half after she started.

A great crowd gathered around Nancy and her driver as they halted and wild shouts were given in honor of the trotting queen. This is Nancy's last engagement and she will be taken to her winter quarters, in Terre Haute, the first of next week.

Pastoral Letter.

At every triennial convention of the Episcopal church, the house of bishops formulate a pastoral letter to the members of their flock over the United States and every priest is expected to read it from the chancel. It always embodies some good suggestions worthy of listening to. It will be read in Calvary church this morning and every communicant is requested to be present and hear it.

Kemp's Balsam stops the cough at once.

DEMOCRACY RALLY.

Democracy Held the City Last Night.

Torchlight Procession — Good Speeches by Dalton and Moran.

Sedalia did honor to "Farmer Dick," last night. It was only a local celebration and yet the number of men in line and the torches which lighted up the streets and sent their red lights far into the night, made such an appearance as could leave no doubt as to the way Sedalia would go in November.

The line of parade was formed at the Market square promptly at 7 o'clock and many who were not expecting such promptness were left behind. Still the number of faithful who were on hand promptly made an imposing appearance. The line of march was north to Main street.

East on Main to Ohio, south on Ohio to Fifth, east on Fifth to Engineer, north on Engineer to Third, west on Third to Lamine, south on Lamine to the court house.

Mayor Ed Stevens as grand marshal, led the procession followed by the Sedalia band, rendering martial airs.

A carriage containing "Farmer Dick," V. P. Hart, Robt. Prigmore and our next county attorney, W. D. Steele, followed after which came a long column of men bearing torches and banners and shouting for Stone. The men marched four abreast and the parade was four blocks long. After parading through the principal streets the procession marched to East Sedalia and paused at Third and Engineer streets for a few minutes while Farmer Dick delivered a short address. Here the ranks were materially swelled by the addition of the boys from the shops and other East Sedalia democrats. The main part of the parade then began and the procession, now swelled to fully a thousand men, marched down Third to the court house.

Standing room was at a premium at the court house last night and to secure a seat one had to be on hand early. Almost as soon as the court room was lighted people began to assemble, and long before the procession returned, every available seat had been taken. The platform surrounding the speaker's desk was filled with chairs and each one was occupied. The ladies were out in force, and their smiles and the interest which they take in the campaign plainly show upon which side of the question the homes are.

As Mr. Dalton entered the court room he was greeted with applause, which was repeated when, in a few well chosen words he was introduced by Hon. W. D. Steele.

DALTON'S SPEECH.

Mr. Dalton said: A man is always glad to be in the home of his friends, and I feel that I have many warm friends in Sedalia. I met Billy Steele when we were trying to remove the capital to this city. I fell under the displeasure of some people for the part I took in this matter but I have no regrets and no apologies to offer for my course.

I have been making a campaign in Missouri for the democratic nominees and I never saw such a wonderful spirit as has been exhibited—a spirit to stand up—not for the new Missouri but for the same grand old Missouri of yore. [Applause.]

The Globe-Democrat says that I have come to Sedalia to whip certain parties into line. I did not know that there was a democrat in Sedalia who was not in line. I thought you could gauge them all with a plumb line. The democrats need no whipping in, and I am not here for that purpose.

The republicans must fellowship with us if they wish to remain in this county, for the idea of November will show that after March the 4th, 1893 the government will be in the hands of the democratic party. From the north, the south, and east and west, come daily tokens that we will elect Grover Cleveland. The die is already cast. The republicans are panic stricken. The democrats with banners flying are marching gloriously onward. There is an old saying that every dog has his day, (laughter.) This is our day. We have been out in the cold a long time but never for one moment have we lost our devotion to party. Over 6,000,000 voters will register their edict against the 'republican party just as sure as November 8th, comes.

We are struggling not for the present but for the future. The victory of to-day is not transitory. It will pass into history and millions yet unborn will be blessed by it.

The apostle—I should say both God and apostle of protection passed through Missouri recently like a kind of Barnum's show in order by his magnetic presence to impress the people with the blessings of tariff. He journeyed in splendid style—as he could well afford to do. He was the guest of the corporations! Why? If I am a man's guest it is because that man is my friend. McKinley was the guest of the corporations because they are his friends and he is theirs. They could well afford to send him around the circle.

He told you how happy you were and how prosperous your homes were—because of the McKinley bill! He was eloquent. Because he had the stuff in his palace car that will make a tongue limber at both ends. Looking at the assurance the man displayed I am led to believe he must have had something more than champagne with him. He must have had at least a barrel of moonshine whiskey.

His doctrine is the doctrine against which the democratic party is fighting. It is incompatible with human freedom. It is paternalism and paternalism is despotism. His doctrine is exemplified by the company he keeps. His friends are the corporations. His doctrine will bring you sorrow and woe and in the end national decay. (applause.)

They say it is to protect the laboring man, but it has brought him sorrow. Is there a laboring man here to-night who can say it has helped him? They never said it would until the labor vote became a factor in politics. Then they raised the question. Has it brought joy to your homes? No. And the day will come when you will curse McKinley and the policy he advocates.

How does it protect you? The manufacturer says to the republican party, place a tariff of 50 per cent on the poor man's clothes. How will that help him? Why, says the manufacturer, the benefit which comes to me I will hold as trustee for him. How much have you been helped? If you wish to know what this system does, go read it over the graves of the murdered men at Homestead. Go to the blood-stained homes in Pennsylvania, and then come and tell your children what a blessing to them and your home, the protection of the republican party is. Carnegie had the money and he hid himself in the mountains of Scotland so as not to be annoyed by the trouble which he knew must follow. The history of Homestead is the history of the republican party. It is to subjugate labor to the plutocracy, and you, laboring man, are going to be a willing victim to mammon. You do not hold your ballot for yourself alone but for your children and your homes. Be careful how you use it. Carnegie is a sample of the republican policy. McKinley gave him a larger benefit. He not only refused to advance the wages of his men but would not even leave the old scale but wished to reduce it. He got the backing of the republican party and was able to do as pleased. I would rather lay down my life than give up all that was dear to me as those men were required to do. To return to Missouri, Major Warner was calling for the labor vote and some one says he will get it. I do not believe it. You are too smart for that, smooth as he is. He has not one thing to show that he even favored labor. But look what the democratic party has done for you in Missouri.

We put upon the statute books the mining law. And this law was largely bought about by Wm. J. Stone. (Applause.) We established the bureau of statistics, for miners and factory inspection, for the protection of children; that no property should be exempt from payment of wages. We passed a law against the Pinkertons, and W. D. Steele prepared and I presented the bill against blacklisting.

Mr. Dalton closed with a humorous account of his failure to get the nomination for governor, and with a stinging, scorching attack upon the A. P. A.

Hon. Mike Moran was then introduced and delivered an eloquent address upon the issues of the campaign. He spoke upon the national and state issues. The tariff was touched up in his own inimitable style, and Maj. Warner came in for his share. The policy of the two great parties was dwelt upon, the hypocritical profession of the republican showed, and the true policy of the democracy in defending and aiding the laboring man, given. The relative merits of the two candidates were compared, and the reason for standing up for grand old Missouri clearly impressed upon his hearers.

Mr. Moran is a clear thinker and gives his audience clear cut sentences which tell. His speech was listened to with close attention and he was frequently applauded.

Gone to Eldorado.

Judge J. A. Holstead left this morning for Eldorado Springs where he will resume the treatment for dropsy.

About two weeks ago the judge returned from Eldorado, and expected to remain until after the election, but in the last few days his condition has become so critical that he was obliged to return. Judge Holstead has a host of friends in Sedalia who will be glad to learn of any change for the better.
